1. Purpose

These terms are subject to revision at any time. The purpose of these terms is to define terms and conditions of use and sale of all the services available on the website accessible by the following address <https://jusmundi.com/> (hereinafter: the « Services »), and also to define the rights and obligations of the parties within this context.

These terms are accessible and printable notably through a link on the page Terms of the website.

These terms can be completed by specific conditions of use for certain services. In the event of a conflict between these terms and the specific conditions, the latter shall prevail.

2. Operators

Jus Mundi has developed and propose to its users and clients a search engine allowing the access to a database of international treaties, court rulings of national and international jurisdictions, arbitral awards and other documents relating to international law.

The website <https://jusmundi.com/> is edited by Jus Mundi, limited liability company under French law, with capital of € 30.000, registered with the Paris Company Register under the number 834 491 474. Its head office is located 10 rue de Penthièvre 75008 Paris. Jus Mundi is represented by its CEO, Mister Jean-Rémi de Maistre.

The Editor is Jean-Rémi de Maistre. The country of publication is France.

The operators of the Services (hereinafter: the « Operators ») can be reached by sending an email to contact [arobase] jusmundi [dot] com_ (hereinafter: the contact address of the Website) and by calling the following number +336.40.73.11.93.

If you wish to delete the information you find in Google or other search engine by typing your name, we invite you to follow these recommendations: <https://www.cnil.fr/fr/le-droit-au-dereferencement>

This website is hosted by OVH, limited liability company under French law, with capital of € 10 059 500, registered with the Lille Métropole Company Register under the number 424 761 419 00045, head office located 2 rue Kellermann, 59100 Roubaix, +33 (0) 8 203 203 63.

3. Access to Website and Services

Subject to restrictions specified on the website, the Services are accessible:

- To any natural person having full legal capacity to commit under these terms. The natural person without full legal capacity could access to the Website only with the authorization of her/his legal representative;
- To any legal entity acting through a natural person with the legal capacity to contract on behalf of the legal entity.

4. Acceptance of the Terms of Services

The use of Services by the user means full and unconditional acceptance of these terms. This acceptance can only be full and unconditional. Any conditional acceptance is to be considered null and void. The user who does not accept these terms must not use the Services.

5. Registration on the Website

The use of certain Services implies that the user registers her/himself on the website by filling in the form provided for this purpose. The user must give all mandatory details. Any uncomplete registration will not be validated. The identity mentioned in the fields “first name” and “last name” must correspond to the real identity of the registered person as written on her/his identity document. Otherwise the suspension of the account or termination of subscription is possible.

The registration implies automatically the creation of an account in the name of the user (hereinafter: the “Account”). It gives him access to a personal space that allows him to manage her/his use of Services in a form and according to technical means considered as appropriate by Jus Mundi.

The User ensures that all details given in the registration form are accurate, up to date, sincere and not corrupted by misleading character.

The User agrees to update these details in the personal space in case of modification in order to keep them always compliant with the previous criteria.

By her/his registration, the User confirms the right to an eventual reuse of public and freely communicable information about him/her in the public communications and Jus Mundi’s publications.

The User is informed and accepts that the details provided for purposes of creation and update of her/his account is valid as proof of her/his identity. The details provided by the User legally bind her/him once the validation has been completed.

The User can access her/his personal space at any time once she/he logged into the website.

The User ensures to use personally the Services and not allow any third person to use them, even on the behalf of the User. Otherwise, the User agrees to assume full responsibility of it.

In the event of the User allows one third person or several to use her/his account, Jus Mundi may reserve the right to suspend her/his account.

The User is responsible for keeping the confidentiality of her/his login and password. She/he must contact Jus Mundi as mentioned at the article 2 without delay in the event of use without her/his knowledge. In such case, the User recognises to Jus Mundi the right to take whatever measure is appropriate.

6. Description of Services

The User access to Services in a form and according to functionalities and technical means considered as the more appropriate by the Operators.

7. Access to Services

The Services are accessible through internet 24 hours a day and 7 days a week except in a case of force majeure. It means an event out of the control of the Operators and/or hosting providers, possible failures or necessary maintenance task to ensure the effective functioning of the Services. These events not entail indemnity.

Jus Mundi undertakes to implement all its means to ensure a good quality of access to Services, speed and reliability of data's on-line release.

8. Obligations of the User

Without prejudice of other obligations provided by these terms, the User commits to fulfil the following obligations:

- When using the Services, the User commits to respect laws and regulations in force and to not infringe third person's rights and public order. The User is solely responsible for the successful achievement of the administrative, fiscal and social formalities and for the payment of all taxes, contributions of any kind due in the context of the Use of Services. The Operators shall not be held responsible in this context.
- The User acknowledges that she/he is informed of characteristic and constraints, in particular technical of the Services, on the website. The User is solely responsible of her/his use of the Services.
- The User is informed and agrees that the implementation of the Services involves being connected to Internet and that the quality of the Services depends directly of this connexion. The User is solely responsible for it.

- In the context of use of the Services, the User is also solely responsible for the relations built with other Users and for the information she/he provides them. It is for the User to exercise prudence and good judgment in the context of her/his relations. The User also commits to apply the usual rules of politeness and courtesy in the context of her/his relations.
- The User commits to make a strictly personal use of the Services. Hence the User is committed to not assign, grant, transfer in whatever form all or part of her/his rights and obligations provided by these terms to a third person.

- Contents of advertisements and other external links or sources accessible by Users from the Services;

In any event, the liability likely to be incurred by the Operators hereunder is expressly limited only to the direct damage proven suffered by the User.

The Operators commit to maintain online the public details issued of public database they reference, even though the User interrupts the Services.

The Operators do not guarantee to the Users that the Services will respond to the specific needs and expectations of the User as it is a "standard" service which is not proposed to one given user in particular according to his own personal constraints.

13. Disclaimer

Certain Services are provided and updated by us on a regular basis without any notification to the user, or may be provided by third party content providers, or shared by users with the community on the platform. The Services cannot be construed as any form of advice or recommendation. You agree that any decisions that you adopt based on the Content is on your own account and at your own risk.

You acknowledge and agree that you access and use the Services at your own risk on an "as is" and "as available" basis and that we are not liable for any errors or omissions in the Services, service, any availability or delivery. The Operators accept no liability of any kind in this regard and cannot be held liable for any inaccuracies or incomplete information published on the website <https://jusmundi.com/>.

In using the Services, Users are informed and acknowledge that the Services do not constitute legal advice in any capacity whatsoever. In particular, Jus Mundi and Jus Mundi Services are not a law firm and do not provide legal advice. There is no attorney-client relationship between you and Jus Mundi, regardless of whether you are a Jus Mundi subscriber.

14. Intellectual Property

With the exceptions indicated below, the systems, software, structures, infrastructures, databases and contents of all kinds (texts, images, visuals, music, logos, trademarks, databases, etc.) exploited by the Operators within the site are protected by all intellectual property rights or rights of database producers in force, and for the whole world.

Access to the service and the right of use granted to the subscriber do not entail any transfer of rights of any kind to the benefit of the User.

Any disassembly, decompilation, decryption, extraction, reuse, copying and more generally, any acts of reproduction, representation, distribution and use of any of these elements, in whole or in part, without the authorization of the Operators are strictly prohibited and may be the subject of legal proceedings.

Any disassembly, decompilation, decryption, extraction, reuse, copying and more generally, any acts of reproduction, representation, distribution and use of any of these elements, in whole or in part, without the authorization of the Operators are strictly prohibited and may be the subject of legal proceedings.

Any use, reproduction, representation, as well as any substantial qualitative or quantitative extraction of the data appearing in this database or any other part of it, must be the subject of an express prior authorization from Jus Mundi.

Any repeated and systematic extraction or re-use of qualitatively or quantitatively non-substantial parts of the contents of the database, when such operations clearly exceed the normal conditions of use of the database, must also be subject to prior express authorisation by Jus Mundi.

The violation of Jus Mundi's rights on these databases exposes offenders to legal proceedings before the competent courts.

15. Personal Data

15.1. Collect and Treatment

In accordance with the French Law of the 6th of January 1978 (modified), Jus Mundi collects User's personal data and is authorized to safeguard them and use them exclusively for the needs of the contract management. The User has a right of access and rectification, removal and opposition about the data related to her/him. The User exercises her/his right through the personal space or by post at Jus Mundi's address with identity justification.

During subscription, the User commits to provide the details necessary to treat the order, in particular her/his fullname, phone number and valid email address.

The User is solely responsible for any consequence that results from false or incorrect details she/he provided.

Unless opposed by the subscriber, she/he may receive offers from Jus Mundi by post and phone.

Personal data collected by the Operators are intended to allow the Operators to take any measure useful to offer a correct use of the Services and to contact the Users.

The Operators commit to not transfer user's personal data.

However, the Operators reserve the right to transfer user's personal data to comply with a legal obligation or with a court ruling or with a decision of an independent administrative authority like the Commission Nationale de l'Informatique et des Libertés (CNIL).

15.2. Reuse of Court Ruling containing Personal Data

In accordance with the CNIL's recommendation of the 29th November 2001, data related to last name and address of natural person included in French court rulings are anonymised.

In accordance with the articles 33 and 47 of the ECHR Rules, certain rulings of this Court are not anonymised.

The Operators commit to comply with the CAVEAT CNIL about the prohibition of re-identifying the anonymised personal data in the court rulings provided by the French jurisdictions.

In accordance with the Law of the 6th January 1978, the User has rights of interrogation, access, rectification and opposition to all data related her/him, for legitimate reasons. You may exercise these rights by contacting us at the contact address of the Website. The User shall provide the legitimate reasons and a copy of identity document with signature.

Once personal data are rectified on Jus Mundi's website, the User may ask other search engines to delete the referencing by following the processes described by the CNIL.

The User may send court rulings to the Operators in order to broadcast them on the website. The court rulings sent by the User must be anonymised in accordance with the CNIL's recommendation of the 29th November 2001. The Operators reserve the right to refuse any court ruling sent by the User if it does not comply with these principles.

16. Advertising

The Operators reserve the right to insert any advertising or commercial message on any page of the website or in any communication with Users. The Operators are sole judge of the conditions and forms.

17. Links and other websites

The Operators may never be held responsible for the technical availability of website or mobile applications operated by third parties (including their partners) which the User access through Jus Mundi's website.

The Operators cannot be held responsible for contents, advertising, product or service available on such websites and mobile applications. They have their own terms of use.

The Operators cannot take responsibility for transactions between the User and any advertiser, professional or trader (including partners) who approached her/him through Jus Mundi's website. Jus Mundi will not be involved in any conflict with these third parties in particular about delivery of product or service, guarantee, declaration and other obligations which bind these third parties.

18. Duration of the Services, Unsubscribing

The Services are subscribed for a specified term.

At any time and without fees, the User may unsubscribe from the Services by sending a request to Jus Mundi, using the mail address mentioned at the article 2.

The unsubscribing is effective immediately. It entails automatic deletion of the User's account.

19. Modifications

The Operators reserve the right to modify these terms at any time.

Any user using the Services after the entry into force of these modified terms is deemed to have accepted these modifications.

The User will be informed of these modifications by an email within thirty (30) days.

The User who does not accept the modified terms of use shall unsubscribe in accordance with the terms of the article 18.

20. Language

The only language of interpretation shall be French in the event of a contradiction or dispute as to the meaning of a term or provision.

21. Applicable Law and Relevant Jurisdiction

These terms are governed by French Law.

In the event of a dispute concerning the validity, interpretation and/or execution of these general conditions, the parties agree that the courts of Paris shall have exclusive jurisdiction to judge them, unless mandatory rules of procedure provide otherwise.

22. Entry into force

These terms have entered into force on the 3th of June 2018.
